

The heat slinger is to be installed on the shaft between the squirrel cage housing and the inboard bearing (bearing nearest the housing). A heat slinger is an aluminum disc that absorbs and dissipates some of the heat conducted along the shaft before it migrates to the bearings.

In addition, the heat slinger incorporates fins that serve like a fan to circulate air with every rotation of the shaft.

